Really not a good game, already at lvl 4 im stuck , not getting any further, and i dont care about getting further either, its just not a fun game.

if you want a ok tower defence game, look elsewhere.. Game developed by Red Winter, a two man studio based in Russia.

Some say Red Winter developed this game while swearing "♥♥♥♥♥♥♥♥♥♥♥♥♥♥♥♥", and that the studio has an undead cow as a pet. All we know is, it's called Dungalot: Shattered Lands.

Complex gameplay, great graphics, great music, non-age restrictive. I never was a fan of such genres, considering games under this category to be dull, lifeless and quite dead. Red Winter managed to successfully develop a "Minesweeper of roguelikes", as CL4P-TP would say "Viva la Robolution" however in this case we talk about zombies smarter than the average undead, scarecrow unions and cultists in masks torturing cats because they're too cute for this world.

4 upgradable chars with distinctive play styles, three worlds, 18 dungeons and a mouse named Tom.

At the moment the game is still being structurally updated, therefore cons at this point are considered to be rushed imo, kind of flashbangs thrown by Carl in front of his teammates confronting terro.

All in all, unique, modern, worth playing.. A game that requires this much going back and forth really needs (desperately) a smoother and quicker way of moving around. It is so slow to move around that I had to resort to a walkthrough to get straight where I needed to go and that removes the exploring and spoils all the fun. So, I doubt I will ever play this one again and I only got started. It's a pity, because the story seemed quite interesting.. Love it, Very Good!. its fine. same as every RPG games i played. a very good sim game.

I just love the concept and the fact you can complete a puzzle, complete it "in the right way" and find pearls / secrets within each round!. EDIT 16/3/2016

Regional locks have been lifted and the game now has an option for "worldwide matches". While ping may be a concern, most games I have played online have not plagued me with packet loss or lagspikes. Game has been optimized for slower PCs and newer machines alike. Gameplay balance is constantly being fixed.

Listen up, other game developers. This is how GreyBox and Petroglyph does things: exactly what the fans want. Thumbs up to the folks over at GreyBox and Retroglyph for the continuous updates and connections to the fans. Thank you so very much.

EDIT: Issues regarding region lock, game optimization and gameplay balance are being fixed as I type. This is the prime time to purchase this classical RTS and get to commanding!

[Original Post]

This is my first time writing a review on Steam but hell, this game deserves it.

Grey Goo is astonishingly fun to play, has decent AI, and good game mechanics. It is a good game overall, sadly I am speaking at launch, and there are loads of issues waiting to be fixed.

First off, the game is currently not fully optimized, and it lags the hell out of slower and even newer pcs. Secondly, the game is region locked, so you can't play online if you're stuck somewhere outside of players who have this game. Lastly, Menu screen are extremely laggy in-matches, which is probably due to optimization errors.

Would I recommend this game? Absolutely.

Would I recommend you buy it now? The answer is No. wait till the issues are fixed and you'll get one hell of an RTS.. This Program has Malware in the configdlg.exe , Atc4. I like it! The graphics are clean and the exploration is interesting.. Very good game! I will wait until save support is integrated, as a playthrough seems too long in one sitting. But all-in-all; well worth the buck!. Had game since release, some actions tied to default keybinds do not work for custom binds. Still no patch for that but trying to sell DLC ?? the part I could play was ok but I'm not changing keybinds every time one of these actions comes up. Bought on PC to use kb+m not play controller first interface design. Waste of my money until patched. 10 year old games get keybinds right, pitiful. If you use controller or default binds go for it, for me it's NO.. Couldn't finish due to Second mission being unbalanced and impossible to beat. Story doesn't add anything new.
